

Broken Hearts

© Richard Andrew King
All Rights Reserved

I hear you've got a broken heart.
I empathize. My heart's been broken, too.
I know your pain. I know your tears.
I know what you're going through.

But give it time. Your heart will mend.
All life regrows anew.
Broken hearts are just God's way to show you what is true, and what is true is you with God walking hand-in-hand across His universe of Love to a Light-Filled Promised Land where hearts are never broken and tears are never shed, where life is peace and peace is life and Wondrous Music fills your head from a Secret Source that dwells Within to let you know you're not alone; where Sound and Light replace your night and guide your Spirit Home.

So rest calm upon your pillow, and, please, do not despair.
God sees and knows of your broken heart, a heart, He promises to repair.

So give it time. Your heart will mend.
Have faith in His great Grace, and one day, through His Promise, you will meet Him face to face, and all your tears will vanish, a thousand broken hearts will mend, and the tears and fears of countless years will all come to an end.